

Product Safety Recall

TOY "POUND THE BALL"

Socrates Enterprises Pty Ltd has sold toys that do not comply with the applicable mandatory consumer product safety standard. The toy "POUND THE BALL" was available for purchase at shops trading under the name "Socrates for Curious Minds" across Australia from 4 January 2006 until 30 November 2006. A total of 282 toys were sold.

The product concerned is a wooden pounding toy with a hammer and coloured balls with a retail value of approximately $49.95. The front of the packaging shows a depiction of the toy and the words "POUND THE BALL", "FOR AGES 2-UP", "MADE IN TAIWAN", the trade mark "CHILD FRIEND" and barcode 4 716841201150. Left is a picture of the toy.

The toy "POUND THE BALL" does not comply with the applicable mandatory consumer product safety standard for toys for children 36 months and under as it contains small balls which may cause a choking hazard. If you have purchased a toy 'POUND THE BALL', do not allow children aged 36 months and under to use the product.

Return it directly to the store or by mail to:
Socrates Enterprises Pty Ltd
Distribution Centre
14 Suakin Street
Pymble NSW 2073

For further information contact:
Carolyn Manners
Socrates Enterprises Pty Ltd
321 Mona Vale Road
Terry Hills NSW 2084
Tel: 02 9473 6756 Fax: 02 9473 6791
www.socrates.com.au

Socrates Enterprises Pty Ltd will provide a full refund for both the purchase price and the cost of returning the product as part of an administrative undertaking given to the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission.

See www.recalls.gov.au for Australian Product Recall Information.